Educating the Future Physicians of Rhode Island

420 Alpert Medical School students

Of the 100 graduates in the Alpert Medical School Class of 2011, 54 were women and 46 were men

15 members of the Class of 2011 entered residency programs in Rhode Island

Alpert medical students represent 92 undergraduate institutions, 38 states (plus the District of Columbia), and 7 countries

The Medical School trains 725 residents and fellows in 25 residency programs

Medical students are taught by 2,518 faculty, of whom 275 are campus based, 726 are hospital based, and 1,517 are community physicians.